The School of Pharmacy at the University of Waterloo invites applications for an individual with a strong clinical background and exceptional teaching skills for a full-time Clinical Lecturer position with an anticipated start date of August 1, 2015. The successful candidate must have a PharmD degree from an accredited program of study and be licensed or eligible for licensure with the Ontario College of Pharmacists. Prior experience teaching pharmacy students at the university level, a minimum of 5 years of practice experience and expertise in a broad range of pharmacotherapeutic areas is expected. Individuals with a Bachelor of Science in Pharmacy who have significant teaching and practice expertise will also be considered. The candidate must demonstrate the ability to communicate effectively (verbally and in writing) and must be able to work independently and as part of a team. The successful candidate will be expected to coordinate and teach five to six courses annually in areas related to the candidate’s clinical experience and curricular need. It is expected that 60% of the faculty member’s time will be devoted to teaching. In addition to teaching, the successful candidate will also engage in clinical, practice-based or education-related research (20% effort) as well as service activities in support of the School, university and pharmacy profession (20% effort).

The salary range for this position is $100,000 to $130,000 annually. The successful candidate may be eligible for consideration for an appointment as a Continuing Lecturer.

The University of Waterloo School of Pharmacy is the anchor institution for the University of Waterloo Health Sciences Campus, located approximately 5 km south of the main campus in the heart of the innovation district in downtown Kitchener. The Health Sciences Campus is also home to a regional program of McMaster University’s Michael G. DeGroote School of Medicine, a teaching clinic for the UW School of Optometry and the Centre for Family Medicine family health team creating unique opportunities for inter-professional education, patient care and clinical research.

The University of Waterloo is annually ranked as the institution in Canada that is the “most innovative” and the most likely to “produce leaders of tomorrow”. It is also well known for attracting entrepreneurial, dynamic faculty. Living in Kitchener/Waterloo, one of Canada’s fastest growing communities, means that you are likely to have a very short commute to work, enjoy the best of vibrant city life and scenic country charm, interact with employees from entrepreneurial companies such as BlackBerry, Desire2Learn and Google, and benefit from diverse ethnic and cultural activities, recreational facilities and thriving creative clusters. This is the community whose unprecedented civic investment established the School of Pharmacy. Additional information on the School of Pharmacy is available at www.pharmacy.uwaterloo.ca.

The closing date for applications is April 30, 2015. Applicants should forward their curriculum vitae, the names of at least three individuals willing to furnish letters of reference, a one-page statement regarding teaching philosophy, and an outline (1 – 2 pages) of the proposed scholarly activity electronically to:

Professor David Edwards, Hallman Director
School of Pharmacy, University of Waterloo
200 University Avenue West
Waterloo, ON N2L 3G1
Email: pharmjob@uwaterloo.ca

The University of Waterloo respects, appreciates and encourages diversity. We welcome applications from all qualified individuals including women, members of visible minorities, Aboriginal peoples and persons with disabilities. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadian citizens and permanent residents will be given priority.

“Three reasons to apply: https://uwaterloo.ca/watport/why-waterloo”.